

Issues report for first quarter 2023 – Jan., Feb., March

As part of KURM's community involvement programming ... KURM continued to cover local government news, with weekly reports on the city councils, quorum courts and other legislative activities through the region.

KURM continued programming "free want ads" for listeners to use ... continued to report on Red Cross blood drives ... Pet Patrol programs for the public to use to locate their dogs and cats. Regular reports from county, state and federal elected officials kept listeners informed.

Additionally, during the first quarter, here are some of the specific special programs:

March 7 – Lieutenant General Gillan, superintendent of West Point, appeared on the Breakfast Show, discussing the opportunities for area students to attend the academy. Two cadets, one from Bentonville and another from Cambodia, appears to discuss the prerequisites for qualifying.

March 21 – Charlie Platt from Highland Mortgage, discussed the status of home loans.

The weekly program "Answers on Aging," broadcast Wednesdays from 9 to 10 a.m., continued to accept calls from the public, with inquiries regarding wills, trusts and other similar issues, providing advice from an attorney and a senior citizens' planner.

Weekly reports from U.S. Congressman Steve Womack were broadcast, keeping listeners informed about current pending legislation.

Weekly broadcasts of County Extension Agent Johnny Gunsaulis gave farmers advice on planting, weed control and other matters affected the agriculture community.

KERM, Inc.

Kermit Womack